

Judge Rosch Confirms Award For Skilypot

Brief Opinion Upholds Award of $12,750 for Land Needed for Esopus Approach to Rondout Creek Bridge and $58,500 for Ancient Ferry—Case Considered Since July—County Will Appeal.

After considering the famous Skillipot award since July 9 of last year, Supreme Court Justice Joseph Rosch of Monticello in a memorandum of one hundred and twenty-seven words has confirmed the award as $10,750, double the value for

The county of Ulster claimed that the real estate award was excessively small, and it justified its demand for indirect damages by the proposition that it would have been determined in another proceeding.

Judge Rosch's Memorandum.

The memorandum of Judge Rosch is as follows:

"Commissioners heretofore appointed disagree as to the award of consequential damages. The petitioners have been unable to agree able to have continued collection tolls of from $35,000 to $37,000 per year if the county had not taken the three acres from the upper end of the farm to be used as an approach to the bridge."

tion opposes confirmation of the report as to the value of property and the amount of damages of a consequential nature. The record presents the respective claims of the parties very fully. The item of consequential damages is the larger one and presents some question. I believe the majority report of the commissioners should be confirmed, and shall make an order to that effect.

"The controversy between the beneficiaries under the Hasbrouck will as to the relative rights to the award, or income thereof, presents questions which cannot be decided in this proceeding. Such rights and interests will have to be determined in an action brought and maintained for that purpose.

"Settle order on notice."

County Will Appeal. The case is considered of sufficient magnitude to require an appeal to the appellate division of the Supreme court, according to County Attorney John V. Eckert, who has represented the county of Ulster throughout the entire proceeding before the commissioners of appraisal and before Judge Rosch. Such appeal will be taken promptly after the order based on Judge Rosch's memorandum.

Commissioners Disagreed on Award.
The commissioners of appraisal were appointed by Judge Rosch in condemnation proceedings taken by the county of Ulster, and they were, as former District Attorney Rollin B. Sanford of Albany, Herbert Roy, of Troy, and William Intemann of Liberty. Messrs. Roy and Intemann made an award of $12,750 for the land taken for the approach to the Rondout Creek Bridge for $8,500 damages "as compensation for the damage to the remainder of the property" making a total award of $12,750.

Commissioner Sanford concurred in the real estate award of $12,750, but dissented in the award of $8,500.

Three Acres Taken.

The southern pier of the bridge rests on property owned by the Delaware Valley and Kingston Railroad Company, but the southern approach to the bridge was taken from the upper end of a farm owned by the Hasbrouck estate, about 500 feet from the old ferry at the foot of the Sleightsburgh hill, and about 200 feet from the upper end of the farm. In all the amount of land taken for the bridge approach was 3.21 acres.

Case Argued Last July.

On July 9, 1924, arguments were made before Justice Bosch at Liberty when Messrs. Roy Roy and Intemann joined the Hasbrouck estate. Mr. Intemann joined the case to enable him to petition to capture their award. Mr. Sanford joined the case to enable the real estate to be sold.

motion to confirm only the estate award.

Lawyers Who Appeared.

At that time County Attorney John W. Eckert appeared for the county authorities and opposed condemnation. Hooper, Chip, represented John H. Haybrough, a son of the deceased, and Emily S. Burdett, Hooper E. Chubbitt's representative, and R. Leonard, a daughter of H. Hasbrouck, Robert C. Hasbrouck, of the New York State bar, and Mr. Coughlin, grand juror of confirming the majority report of the commissioners.

During the last part of the trial before the commissioners of appraisal, the Philadelphia representative, the Hon. Philip C. Tate, later, upon his appointment as collector of the Port of New York, withdrew from the active trial of the case, and thereafter

The Hadzbrock claimants were represented by Mr. Chappin and the late William H. Bennett. Throughout the trial, Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hadzbrock of this city, who was one of the executors and trustees under the will of his brother, Dr. Josiah Hadzbrock, also appeared and participated in the examination and cross-examination of witnesses, and also took part in the arguments before the commission.

SHOWS EARTH'S CRUST IS 1,600,000,000 YEARS OLD

Professor of Geology Uses Radium in Test to Make His Calculations.

Boston.—Using radium as a measure, Professor Alfred C. Lane, professor of geology at Tufts college, has calculated that the approximate age of the earth's crust is 1,600,000,000 years. The experiments he is conducting are based on the disintegration of radium into lead. The chemical decomposition is translated by mathematics into terms of years.

Professor Lane's estimate is based on the age of the oldest radioactive rock he has found. He conceives that buried in the strata of the earth may be other rocks millions of years older than any he has analyzed. The oldest rock he has examined was obtained in the Katanga, Belgian Congo, where the great radium deposits were found recently. These rocks were 1,600,000,000 years old.

"The rate of transformation," Professor Lane pointed out, "is independent of the amount of material, temperature, pressure or any other external condition to which we can subject the radioactive substance."

"Thus, in radium we find that if half of the material present is transformed into lead in a given time, half the remaining quantity will be transformed in a subsequent period of equal duration, and half that amount still left will undergo change in an equal third period."

"It is this 'half-value period' of radium which enables us to calculate time. For example, we have found that it takes 1,700 years for a given quantity of radium to become half lead."

"Scientists found there are 2,700 million millions of atoms to a gram of radium, and that atoms explode at the rate of 85,700 a second, and by a process of division were able to calculate the rate of decomposition."

"Hence, by taking prehistoric rocks and determining the proportion of lead to the radium scientists can mathematically ascertain the age of rocks, assuming, of course, that previously only radium had existed before."

Utah's Great Salt Lake Is Increasing Its Size

Salt Lake City, Utah.—The general impression is that the Great Salt Lake of Utah is getting smaller and smaller, and that in the course of time it will be merely a dry salt basin. But the weather bureau has found that instead of the waters of the lake receding they are rising. The lake is getting bigger.

This movement is not a new thing for the rather mysterious lake. Between 1850 and 1870 it increased from 1,700 to 2,170 square miles. Since then it has decreased, but the movement is now the other way. With the changes in size there have been changes in the salt content, which has varied from 14 to 25 per cent. The present lake is really what is left of a great ancient body of water that covered practically all Utah, and which has been named Lake Bonneville. The old shore lines are still visible on the hills around Salt Lake City. No convincing explanation has ever been given of the fluctuation in size of the lake.

The present rise is causing a great deal of trouble to the railroads and the farms. In some places the tracks of the roads over the lake have had to be raised, and if the water keeps rising more work of the same sort will have to be done.

600 Bricks in Hour Laid on a Wager

London.—The latest world record claimed here is the laying of 600 bricks in an hour, or more than 15 a minute. The feat was performed by Christopher Hull, a foreman bricklayer of Sheffield, for a wager of £10.

Hull was allowed four laborers to wait upon him, but nevertheless the performance was regarded as a remarkable display of strength and skill. His achievement meets with no admiration among the trade unionists, however, and one of the union officials is quoted as saying: "The man's crazy and ought to be made to eat his bricks. A fair average is 400 an hour."

The builders on the other hand say many men could lay 600 daily if they chose, but that the average is around 300. They have long complained of deliberate stoppages since the war, which they claim is largely responsible for the housing shortage.

Man Bitten by Mosquito Gets Accident Award

San Francisco.—The state industrial accident commission recently decided that a mosquito bite on the tongue constituted an industrial hazard, and as such awarded William Miller, laborer, $2,677.12 with $22.50 a week until he recovers. Miller, who was bit on the tongue last June 10 at Van Sickle Island, near Pittsburg, Cal., has been unable to work since that time. His tongue became inflamed from the bite.

Kill Big Cougar

Orleans, Wash.—One of the biggest cougars ever killed in Thurston county was bagged by A. B. Hall of Yelm and a companion and brought to Olympia for collection of the $50 bounty. The pet measured nine feet from tip to tip.

Shortly before being killed the animal had slain a four-point buck.

PISO'S Coughs

What Becomes of the Girls Who Disappear?

YOU wonder what becomes of them—the girls who disappear—drop out of sight, many never to be heard of again.

There are hundreds of such girls. You read about them in the papers for a day or two—then interest lags, and except for a broken-hearted mother, a father prematurely aged and hair turned gray, each case is forgotten in the interest that the next arouses.

Late one night a young girl stepped from a train in the station at Youngstown, Ohio. She was attractive, beautiful and of excellent family.

She wanted to surprise her parents by her unexpected home coming and so, instead of telephoning to her father to come and escort her, she took a night-hawk taxi standing at the curb.

Later, a car came to a stop before a quiet-looking house with drawn curtains, and an unconscious girlish figure was carried quickly up the steps and through the door—a door that might well have borne the legend "All hope abandon, ye who enter here."

That is how one girl disappeared as though the earth had swallowed her. Thus it was that through a simple error such as any girl might make, there began a chapter in her life so dreadful that she will carry the sickening memory of it with her to the grave.

Ordinarily wild horses could not tear from her the details of the horrors she endured from the time she stepped into the taxi until she was rescued days later from that terrible barred room in the house with the shades drawn down.

But because she realizes that thousands of girls innocently and unthinkingly make errors that might easily result as disastrously as the simple mistake she made, she has relived the episode once again, in order that other girls may be spared the depths of degradation and humiliation she suffered.

You will find her story, told in her own words, in True Story Magazine for March, entitled "Outside the Law." Every word, every incident, every detail, recorded exactly as it was burned into her memory. Nothing is changed, nothing hidden, except the real names of the persons involved, which for obvious reasons have to be disguised. It is a powerful, gripping true story that every girl and every parent of girls should read. Never in the history of True Story Magazine, whose purpose is and always has been to fight the powers of evil, has it placed before its readers a tale that will do more to protect girls and women from the human vultures who feed upon the trustfulness and thoughtlessness of innocence than this self-told story of a girl who disappeared. You will find it in True Story for March, now upon the newsstands.

"When she stepped into waiting taxi cab for the journey home there was nothing in the looks or actions of the driver and his companion to give her the slightest suspicion that there was anything wrong."

From "Outside the Law" in March True Story

Other Heart-Gripping True Stories in the March Issue Are:

"As a Woman Sows"—To Blanche, marriage for love was a forlorn road to happiness—unless plenty of money went with it to bolster up the matrimonial scheme.

So she hesitated not an instant when she saw a chance to lure rich old Alexander Potter into marriage with her. She did not count on the fact that a man may be old, but still very clever—and when, shortly afterward, real love actually came into her life, she found that she had recklessly thrust herself into the jaws of a terrible trap from which it seemed there was no escape. Read this girl's confession of her folly and the heart-rending events it led to. It's one you won't forget for many a day.

"How I Won My Husband"—When a girl loves a certain man who is too shy to propose, is it wrong for her to use strategy? That was the question Winnie had to answer respecting Dick. But when she decided to go ahead and win him by methods all her own, she did not foresee the amazing entanglement in which she was to involve herself as a result. WINNIE there is a touch of humor in this astonishing true story as Winnie tells it—every girl who reads it, whether she is in love or not, will profit by the mistakes that Winnie made.

A Mother's Opinion of True Story

When I read "If Youth But Knew" I decided I would get True Story each month because I have two boys, one just 16 years and the other 14, and I thought they should know and I wanted to tell them. We only have the two children and we are a loving family one to the other and I was afraid they would think me old-fashioned if I explained plain facts to them.

They are both great readers and want to read every magazine or book that comes in our home. So when I read, "If Youth But Knew," I thought our problem was solved. When I put the magazine on the table I left it open at that story. And my oldest boy came and got it and read it and I never let on that I saw him reading it. When he had read them all, he said, "Mother, there are some good lessons for young folks in True Story Magazine. Let's take it all the time. So we all read True Story now. I have just finished reading the February issue, but I cannot tell you I liked better than that story, for it is as good as new—there are good lessons for both young and old in it."

The only fault I find with it is that it's so interesting I can hardly do my work when it comes in the house. We can hardly wait each month for it and I don't see what you could do to make it a better magazine and I think all folks raising a family should take True Story Magazine. So the young people can read it. I think it would keep many a boy and girl from going astray.

Yours truly,
MRS. A. S. G.

"The Bigamist's Wife"

Born amid the sordid surroundings of the serving class in London, she came to hate her lowly station even as a child, and determined that some day she would climb to the high social level of those she then served. She had partially succeeded, she thought, when she met and married Harry Hobbs, owner of a large hotel; and when later she found herself a widow and burdened with her late husband's debts, she was easily flattered by the attentions of the young army captain who represented the aristocracy of England and "promised" to make her his wife. Read and learn how he fulfilled his "promise," and its dramatically eventful outcome for Gladys. One of the most gripping stories that has appeared in True Story Magazine.

A Record of Life

If human history could be reduced to a single page—if the lives of the men and women whose names have lived could be recorded in the space of a few paragraphs—one great fact would stand out and dominate all the rest. And that is, that even among the highest and mightiest—sin never has succeeded—wrong never has, and never can win.

If the great of the earth cannot escape the inevitable penalties of wrong, what chance have we lesser ones who make up the majority?

This is a truth about life that Bernarr Macfadden has been hammering home ever since he started several years ago to edit and publish True Story Magazine. In a thousand different ways, touching on a thousand widely-varied problems of life, he has sought, through the pages of True Story Magazine, to drive into the public consciousness those great burning truths about our moral, spiritual and physical lives that every man and woman, every boy and every girl ought to know.

That he is succeeding in a big way is attested by the large number of letters from all over the world that pour into the offices of True Story Magazine. Those who have walked blindly have had their eyes opened. Those who needed instruction and guidance have received it, and have profited thereby. Those who have been tempted have seen the Truth, and have found strength to resist temptation. Those who have erred through ignorance or misinformation, have been saved from shame, sorrow and degradation and have found the only way to success and happiness. Such is Bernarr Macfadden's great achievement—one that any man might well glory in.

League Buying In Certificates

Continuing its policy of buying back certain blocks of certificates of indebtedness in order to more evenly distribute these obligations, the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., is now offering to purchase all of its Series "A" certificates whose serial numbers end with the digit "2." A recent announcement from the New York office states that the directors have authorized the treasurer to pay 95c on the dollar with accrued interest to Jan. 1st for all such certificates, providing they are received in the New York office of the league before the close of business on February 14th. Certificates thus offered for sale to the association must be endorsed on the back with the name of the owner.

This is the fifth block of its Series "A" certificates which the association has offered to buy since July last. Reluctance of the dairymen holding these certificates to dispose of them is shown by the fact that up to the present time the league has offered to buy back more than two million dollars worth of Series "A" and so far has been able to actually purchase only around $700,000 worth.

The recent announcement of the association regarding its discontinuing evaporated milk operations and sale and greater concentration on fluid milk sales has greatly increased the members' faith in the ultimate success of the pooling plan and consequently in the value of their certificates of indebtedness. Although the financing of the organization has fallen pretty heavily on their shoulders at times in the past, league farmers are now convinced of the wisdom of the course they have followed. With the present readjustments in the league's program by which the bulk of its sales will be in the fluid milk market, the league farmers see their financial burdens becoming lighter and at the same time they see prospects of better milk prices.

As one evidence of this they point to the fact that in addition to the recent purchases of Clover Farms and Evans Dairy Company which were made on a cash basis, the association is still in a position to continue its offers to buy in further blocks of its certificates of indebtedness. The concentration on fluid milk markets, they declare, will cut down much unnecessary operating costs and will enable the league to eliminate a great deal of the hauling costs that have heretofore been necessary.

At the present time, officials of the association see no cause for worry over the annual withdrawal which begins February 12 and ends February 28. A normal number of cancellations are expected because it has been a year of depressing conditions in the dairy industry and many dairy farmers have discontinued farming or have sold their dairies. The recent improvements in league milk prices, largely due to the expansion of the league's fluid milk markets in New York city, with the prospect of a very good price for January milk as well as for February, gives the league farmers a more hopeful outlook than they have had for a long time.

PLUTARCH.

Plutarch, Feb. 5.—Sunday school as usual next Sunday at 1:30; preaching service at 2:30.

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Nostrand had a daughter born last Friday afternoon. It has been named Margaret Harriet. Mother and child are doing nicely under the care of Dr. Rivenburg of Highland and Mrs. Dennis Carroll, nurse.

Little Dorothy DeGraff, who has been ill with a severe cold, is some better at this writing.

Uno Lilberg got in a snow drift with his car on Monday to avoid hitting a horse and disabled it so it had to be towed home. The car has been scraped but there are no turning out places.

While John Markle and daughter, were returning home from Kingston on Thursday during the snow storm someone side swiped his car near Put Corners. The damage was slight. The party drove right on, not trying to find out if anyone was hurt. The deep snow along the road saved them from being thrown in the trolley track.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmateer were callers in New Paltz on Sunday.

Mrs. Peter Michel has returned from New York, where she has been spending the last ten days with her who has been ill with an infected finger. At this writing he is getting along nicely and able to resume his duties.

Mrs. Horace celebrated her birthday on Tuesday with a few friends at her home.

All who attended the dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Markle on Friday night last report a fine time.

On account of the drifted roads the rural mail carrier did not get around on Friday last.

Harry Albertson and Lewis Rose of Highland are cutting wood at Charles Richter's. They are boarding with Mrs. Estella Albertson during the week.

Miss Smith, the district school teacher, will board with Mrs. Chester Elliott this week or until she finds a permanent place.

Hunters are through this section nearly every day hunting for fox. Quite a number have been shot this winter.

Alexander Stimatz returned to his duties in New York on Saturday last, after spending the week with his family here.

LINGERIE SUGGESTIONS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

A nightgown which has such qualities as make it adaptable for negligee wear as well, is justified in making a wide appeal. These qualities have to do with a shoulder line so elongated that one gets enough of a sleeve to satisfy one's urge for one. It may also have a ribbon-run waistline—not necessary, perhaps, to one's happiness in the choice of a negligee, since many have no waistlines at all, but still effective. The addition of a lace yoke is rather generally approved in lingerie circles—still very colorful and inclined to admit green to its intimate sphere.

One has already begun to think of lingerie as coming in sets, the influence, no doubt, of the ensemble germ. There are dance sets consisting of a stepin, bandeau, and garters, it being presumed that every little dance frock has a slip all its own; and there are trousseau sets, for want of a better name, some of which are comprised of gown, pantaloons, chemise and slip. Contrasting bindings and tiny appliques in matching hue are a favored decoration, while, of course, net and fine laces, pleatings and embroideries are not overlooked.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Pretty Afternoon Frock.

1956. Metal brocade and satin are here combined. This model would also be attractive in crepe or crepe de chine combined with figured silk or embroidery. It may be developed in simpler style as shown in the small view; without the tunic.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 24, 36, 48, 60, and 42 inches bust measure. The width of the dress at the foot is 1 1/2 yards. To make as illustrated in the large view for a 36 inch size will require 3 1/2 yards of figured material and 3 1/2 yards of plain material 36 inches wide. If made with long sleeves, 3/4 yard more material is required.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and summer 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing ten dozens of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 24 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

MT. TREMPER.

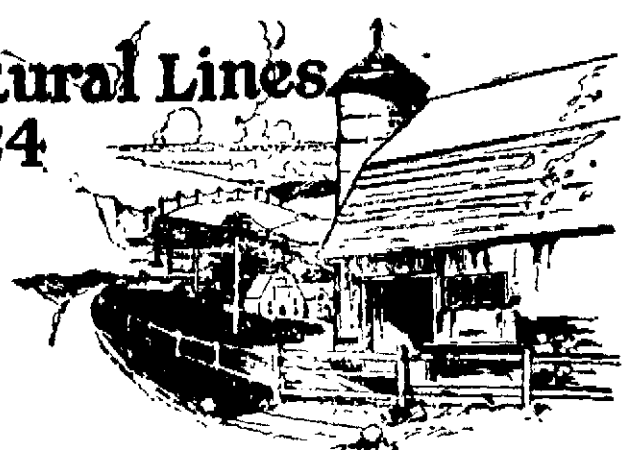

Mr. Tremper, P. S. 5.—The recent heavy snow fall caused bad traveling again, especially on the side roads. The snow plough went up on the state road Saturday afternoon and George Lane of Willow opened the Hollow road as far as the town line.

Wm. Margaret Keating has gone to Brooklyn where she will enter high school.

Harry Eckert, Jr., has come to Walton where he has entered high school. He will stay with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eckert.

75 Miles of Rural Lines in 1924

A FEATURE of the growth of electric utilization in the Central Hudson

Region during 1924 is the progress made in constructing distribution lines in the rural districts.

Electricity for use on the farm and in homes distant from populated centers, can not be taken directly from high voltage cross country transmission lines. It must be "stepped down" to a safe low voltage and then transmitted over branch lines.

During 1924 a total of seventy-five miles of rural distribution lines were built in the territory served by the Central Hudson System of Gas and Electric Companies.

This means bringing the efficient modern servant, Electricity, which springs into action at the touch of a button, to homes in the country, far distant from cities. It means greater freedom for the housewife in rural districts, lightening the burden of many household tasks as well as making farm work more interesting and enjoyable.

Rural construction in 1924 established a new record in the Central Hudson Region. It is all part of a great program of development of this region, industrially, commercially, and agriculturally to the end that it may be a still better place in which to live, to work and to play.

For Ten Years the World's Greatest Buy

Hudson's position as the world's greatest value is not merely a new attainment. For ten years the Super-Six has stood alone in mechanical supremacy. Basic patents have kept others from copying its motor. The smoothness and long life it gives are exclusive. No motor has yet equaled the Super-Six in smoothness and long, economical car life.

A Leadership Never Disputed

Hudson, because of the simplicity of the Super-Six, has always enjoyed manufacturing advantages that permitted a lower selling price than is possible with more complicated types. That, in part, accounts for its 10 years of leadership. Hudson is the World's Greatest Value, because it costs much less than any comparable car.

And because it has always provided better looks and more comfort at less money.

No rival disputes that and every motorist knows it.

MILK INSTEAD OF WATER

Gives the last note of luxury to the loaf you love. If the charming milkmaid went to the well to fill her brimming pail, instead of to the good, old-fashioned cow, your Bread would still be Bread, but not a luxury loaf.

Luxury carries a universal appeal—that last distinctive touch that spells perfection.

The finest Bread, perfect in size and flavor, is made extra rich in nourishment by the addition of Milk.

Milk is an indispensable factor in the diet, contributes a greater nourishment to Bread and adds to its flavor also.

MRS. SALZMANN'S MOTHER'S BREAD, made with Milk, is rich in nourishment, wholesome and appetizing in flavor; unequalled in economy.

MRS. SALZMANN'S MOTHER'S BREAD is a better, richer and more delicious loaf because it contains a large share of milk, sweet, whole and creamy.

WORKS FOUR DAYS WITH BROKEN NECK

Forced to Hospital by Pain,
Discharged as Cured.

London.—With his neck head and shoulders incased in plaster of paris, John Harrington, a Southsea gardener, has just been discharged from hospital after three weeks' treatment for a broken neck. And, miraculously to relate, Harrington will recover quite soon, according to the doctors.

Harrington was injured when a piece of masonry fell on his neck but he continued working four days before pain drove him to the hospital. The doctors found he was suffering from a complete fracture of a section of the spinal column and could not make out how he had lived.

They proceeded to knit the spinal column together again, and did so so successfully that Harrington can now eat, drink and smoke without inconvenience. He expects to start work again in a week or so.

Chaufeur, Blackjacked,
Dares Thugs, Saves Car

New York.—Max Locker worked years to acquire the taxicab he drives. With a robber thrusting a pistol against his abdomen and another beating him with a blackjack, he looked them in the eye and announced he would not be robbed. He was not.

About three o'clock as he was returning to Manhattan, two men stopped him at Forty-first street and Fifth avenue, gave a Brooklyn address and asked him to drive them there.

He protested he had to get back to Manhattan, but both showed him chauffeurs' badges, and one said, "We're chauffeurs, too, and we've got to get home." He agreed to take them as a favor.

In Thirty-ninth street, near Eighth avenue, one of the men stepped out on the running board, pointed a pistol at him and ordered him to stop and get out. Locker obeyed.

"We want your money and this car," the robber then said.

"Go ahead and shoot, if you're game enough," Locker said. "I'm game, too." As the robber hesitated, his companion drew a blackjack and hit Locker on the head.

"Why are you beating me?" the chauffeur asked. "Is that the way you return a favor?"

Then he began calling for help. The robbers fled.

Locker, after a physician had treated him, remarked:

"I worked all my life to buy this cab, and I wasn't going to give it up without a fight. This fellows' gun didn't mean anything to me. Having a gun didn't prove he had nerve enough to pull the trigger."

Girl Speeder in Court
Wins Wager With Mother

Detroit, Mich. — Seventeen-year-old Ethel M. Schuler is wondering whether she won a bet with her mother.

Ethel appeared before Judge Christopher E. Stein and admitted driving her father's automobile at 32 miles an hour.

"You know you are liable for a fine by pleading guilty?" Judge Stein questioned the fair defendant.

"Yes, your honor," she replied. "I came prepared for that contingency."

"How much money have you?" inquired the judge.

"But how much are you going to fine me?" responded Ethel sweetly.

Judge Stein, by questioning her, revealed that Ethel had wagered with her mother that her fine would not exceed "a certain sum." Just what this "certain sum" represented was not disclosed in court, but Ethel's mother had agreed that Ethel could keep everything left after the "certain sum" was paid.

Judge Stein finally compromised with three months' probation and Ethel wonders if she is to keep the "certain sum" in its entirety.

Girl Reared as Chinese
Finds She Is White

Billings, Mont.—Miss Evelyn May, foster daughter of the Caucasian wife of Dr. May Hing, a Chinese resident, and Henry E. Hinkle, white, of Miles City, were married. It was learned the other day.

Earlier efforts to have a minister perform the ceremony were unsuccessful, the latter holding that a Montana law prohibited intermarriage of Chinese and white persons. Mrs. May, in an affidavit, declared her foster daughter is the daughter of a wealthy Toronto business man. Until shortly before her marriage Mrs. May believed that she had Chinese blood in her veins.

The man readily accepted the proffer. Wells turned the crank and a moment later found himself on the ground with his arm broken.

Men Still Busy Removing Snow

The work of clearing the snow from the city streets is still being carried on by the street department under the direction of Superintendent W. Scott Van Keuren. Just what the cost of snow removal will be will not be known until the work is completed. The snow plows are still busy on the side streets. Traffic conditions throughout the city are now in good shape, and the coal men and other industrial concerns have no trouble in making deliveries to houses. The snow has provided work for a number of men who were idle.

Valuable Cotton Plant

A new kind of cotton, known as tangulis and immune to wilt, has come to the front in Peru. It is descended from a single plant, which stood perfect in an infected field and the seed from which produced other perfect plants true to type. It yields about 800 pounds to the acre.

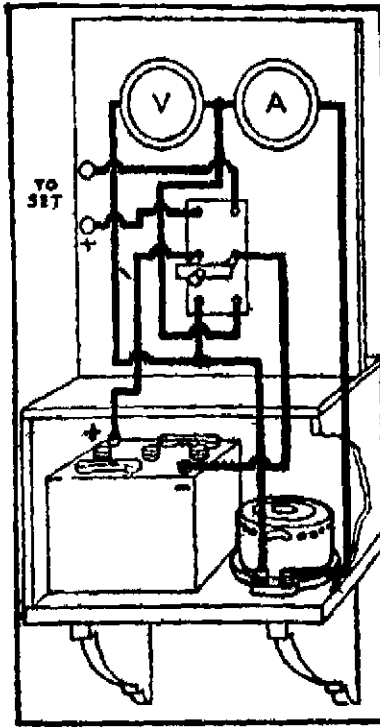

Charging Unit Is Simple to Build

May Be Placed in Cellar if Radio Set Is Located on Next Floor.

It is a comparatively simple matter for one to build a charging unit as shown. This outfit contains a place for the battery and charger and a panel for mounting the switch and the meters. The parts necessary for the construction of this unit are as follows:

One voltmeter.
One ammeter.
One double pole, double throw knife switch.

One A battery charger.
One panel.
Two binding posts.
The meters and the switch should be mounted on the panel. Hard rubber or bakelite should be used for the panel material. The switch should be double pole double throw of the knife type. This may be obtained at any electrical store.

Recharging Panel and Battery Layout, Volt and Ammeter Connections.

It is advisable to use heavy insulated wire in connecting up the various parts. To make a neat job all connections should be made from the rear of the panel. The dimensions have not been given, because the reader will probably build the unit to fit the space that is available.

The switch is so wired that when thrown up, the storage battery will supply current to the radio set. When the battery runs down it is only necessary to throw the switch to the down position, which on the panel is toward the bottom. When the switch is in this position the charger is connected to the battery. The next operation is to turn on the light switch so that current will be furnished to the charger and in turn a charge will be delivered to the battery. When the battery has been properly charged the switch should be thrown up, connecting the battery to the set and the light switch should be turned off.

If one desires, the battery-charging outfit may be placed in the cellar, providing the radio set is located on the next floor. It is not advisable to run the battery leads for more than 25 feet. If the leads are over 10 feet at least No. 12 or 14 rubber-covered wire should be used for the connections.—New York Evening World.

Manufacturers Unable to Keep Up With Orders

By MAJOR HERBERT H. FROST

The radio industry right now is running away beyond all estimates and expectations. The manufacturers who have been longest in the field had prepared for a record-breaking season, but the season started earlier than was anticipated and few manufacturers are now able to keep their production up to their orders.

Radio apparatus is much better than it ever was. More persons are discovering that it does not require a college course in electrical engineering to make it possible to build their own radio receiving sets.

The most satisfactory feature of this increase in business is that it probably will be permanent. I do not look for the usual drop next summer. By that time the new higher power stations, authorized at the recent radio conference called in Washington by Secretary Hoover, will be in operation. With these high-power stations it will be possible to cut through the atmospheric disturbances which have tended to hamper summer reception.

Also, these high-power stations will make it possible for the farmer to receive his market and weather reports during the daylight hours. Heretofore such reception has been extremely difficult, and this condition kept the farmer from buying radio. At the present time probably not more than 15 per cent of all the American and Canadian farmers have receiving sets. The farmers have had a very prosperous year and I look for a large percentage of them to begin buying radio within the next few months.

Thousands of people also have been waiting before buying sets in the belief that there would be revolutionary changes in receiving sets. The best engineers in the industry are of the opinion that there will be no such change. Development will be gradual and there is no danger of a person buying a good set today and finding it obsolete a few weeks hence.

Some Opportunity

Opportunities are being created by the fact that the seed may fall from the tree and bring forth another tree. The fruit may decay yet help nurture the tree's growth. But opportunity, if not seized as they come, are gone forever.—CHIT

Third School District Meeting

In compliance with the state school laws County Clerk John H. Saxe has notified the members of the board of school directors of the third supervisory school district of Ulster county that a meeting of the board will be held at the Mitchell House, Ellenville, on February 20, at 11 a. m. The purpose of the meeting is to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Elsie J. Root as district supervisor; also to elect a president and a secretary, as the incumbents of those offices are no longer school directors of the district. The vote will be by ballot and the ones receiving the highest number of votes will be declared elected.

In the Silent Night

In the middle of the night father heard in the next room—Roger's room—a little murmur, very soft: "Papa, papa! Mamma!" "That's Roger dreaming," said father to himself. But the murmur continued, still soft and still muffled. "Papa! Mamma! I fell out of bed!" Father got up, went into Roger's room and found him actually on the floor.

"Why didn't you cry louder, sonny? I might have been asleep and would not have heard you. You should have shouted and not whispered for papa." "But I didn't want to wake you up," said Roger.—From L'Echo de Paris.

This Teaches Us

President Coolidge, whose literary taste is excellent, said at a White House luncheon:

"I mistrust best sellers, the authors whose names are household words, and whose bank accounts never descend below four figures."

"Look at Poe and Whitman. They stand out above all their contemporaries today, yet Whitman lived in a little wooden shanty in Camden, while Poe lived in a little wooden shanty in Fordham, and they were both behind-hand with the rent."

"This teaches us that genius will out. Even during the genius' life it will out—at the elbow."

Making Paper Negative

A good way of making paper negatives more transparent, and so reducing the time of printing, is to make up a mixture of one part of Canadian balsam to five parts of turpentine. This should be well rubbed into the back of the print with a tuft of cotton-wool until the paper is as completely impregnated with it as possible.—Springfield Republican.

Great Men's Friendship

Boccaccio the great Italian novelist of the Fourteenth century, author of the famous "Decameron," was an intimate friend of the celebrated poet, Petrarch. His friend's death is said to have notably hastened Boccaccio's death.

ONE MAN WAS HURT WHEN C. & D. CARS JUMP TRACK

Monday afternoon one man was slightly hurt, six cars and a caboose derailed and traffic tied up for several hours on the Ulster & Delaware Railroad near the Grand Hotel station. The man injured was William Symonds of Oneonta, who sustained a sprained ankle when he jumped from the car next to the caboose. The train was in charge of Conductor John Jackson and Engineer Claude Lasher, both of Kingston. The derailment was caused, it is believed, by either a broken wheel or spreading rails. The wrecking crew cleaned up the wreck and made repairs to the track. Symonds was taken to his home in Oneonta.

Fair Commission May Be Abolished

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Abolition of the state fair commission and transfer of its duties to the state department of farms and markets, is the action expected to be taken by the state board of estimate and control at its meeting this afternoon when the report of Research Director Joseph A. Wilson on the fair's condition and regulation will be submitted.

The lieutenant governor for some time has expressed the opinion that the fair commission should be abolished and its work done by the farms and markets department. Governor Smith has always favored such a plan and is expected to agree to it.

Under Lowman's plan a bureau would be created in the department of farms and markets which would have complete control of the annual fair. The bureau would be under the jurisdiction of the state council of farms and markets.

Many Claim Animals Dream and See Spirits

Most people are satisfied that animals dream, and many believe that they see spirits. Here are some recorded instances, as related by the Montreal Star: A horse was to be put in a stable at a hotel while the owner had his lunch. The horse would not enter the hotel yard, so the owner asked what was the cause. The reply was: "I expect he knows we have a dead man here, taken from the river this morning."

A terrier was seen baying (as he always bays for sugar, then he barked and went upstairs, then bugged again. A person who was a clairvoyant noticed this, and saw he was baying to the spirit of the lady who, when she was on earth, taught him to bay for sugar. A cat was seen running all over a bedroom, got upon the bed, etc. The cat was trying to follow a spirit form that was moving about the bedroom. At a lecture given at the Central Palace a live rat was put in a glass tube, and the tube was sealed up at each end. The room was in darkness and an electric light was put over the tube. When the rat died a form the same shape as a rat came from the tube and went up in the air.

Air Service Row Breaks in House

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The air service row broke out openly in Congress this afternoon when Representative James McClintick, Democrat, Oklahoma, charged on the floor of the house that the navy department had "deliberately misled" the people of the United States in permitting the impression to get abroad that airplanes had not been successful in sinking the battleship Washington.

McClintick, a member of the house naval affairs committee, is one of the leading supporters of Brig-General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, in his controversy with his superiors over the development of military aeronautics.

Mitchell had been quoted as saying that he could have sunk the battleship Washington with aerial bombs in four minutes.

McClintick backed up Mitchell's statement, declaring that by dropping sand bombs on the war ship the navy department permitted it to be reported that the aerial attack on the vessel had been unsuccessful and that it was necessary to destroy it with gunfire from battleships.

POULTRY SKIM MILK FAVORED FOR LAYING FOWLS

Hens must have some form of animal protein in their feed. This is usually supplied by beef scrap. Two years ago an experiment was started at the experimental farm, Nappan, N. S., to determine the relative values of beef scrap and skim milk when added to the laying ration. Two pens were made up of ten birds, as uniform in breeding, age and type as it was possible to select. The rations fed to each pen were alike and constant except that Pen 1 received beef scrap and Pen 2 skim milk.

The results show the possibilities there are of realizing good value by feeding skim milk. The average production from the ten birds receiving beef scrap for the two six-month feeding periods (November 1 to April 30, each year) was 615.6 eggs, at a feed cost of $3.75, or 26.8 cents per dozen, leaving a profit over feed cost of 97.2 cents per bird.

Pen 2 the ten birds receiving skim milk over the same period had an average production of 680.5 eggs, at a feed cost of $2.70, or 21.8 cents per dozen, leaving a profit over feed cost of $1.49 per bird. By taking the average of two years it was found that 586.7 pounds skim milk, valued at 20 cents per hundred and thus costing $120, gave greater returns than 30 pounds beef scrap at a market price of $7.24 per hundred, thus costing $2.82.

If, as believed at the experimental farm, the increase in production from the pens receiving milk can be attributed to the value of skim milk as a food for laying hens, it would only be fair to state that the farmer had received slightly better than one dollar per hundredweight for his skim milk when he marketed it through his eggs.

As this feeding test has been carried on for two years only, it does not permit the drawing of definite conclusions yet. However, the results to date would lead one to believe that a part of the skim milk available on the farm can be very profitably marketed through the egg and would seem to be a more profitable proposition than paying $7 per hundred for beef scrap in order to supply the amount of protein so essential for profitable egg production.

Early Hatched Fowl Is Sure to Be Profitable

The early hatched pullet can be made the most, or the least, profitable pullet on your farm.

Cared for in the usual way, she will begin laying during August; lay until fall, and quit, to go through a molt, when eggs are highest in price and when they are needed most.

A hen molts because she quits laying, therefore our problem is to keep her laying, fighting anything that tends to retard production.

Many pullets, being fed on a narrow ration, begin laying before they are fully developed. After a short period they quit, because they haven't the physical strength to stand up under prolonged production.

Having our pullets fully developed is not alone sufficient. There comes the season when the long winter nights cut into the fowl's feeding, thereby reducing production. Here is where the value of lights comes in.

January and February pullets, rightly developed and properly handled, should start laying in August, and under lights, continue through high-priced fall season until about February, when they will spend a short period going through the molt.

Protect Chicken Flock During Severe Weather

There is always the likelihood of a spell of cold, damp weather and it is just at this time that colds, roup and allied diseases are likely to get started, with the result that we have them to battle with all winter. Get everything in full readiness for inclement weather and whenever a bad day comes the flock should be given ample protection. The houses should be thoroughly cleaned and if repairs are necessary this should be attended to. There should be plenty of clean, dry litter.

Many successful poultrymen follow the practice of supplying a little more feed than usual when the weather is unfavorable and some of them change the ration slightly, supplying a little more of the heat and fat-producing elements. This is done on the theory that the fowls are warmer and more comfortable when so fed and there is no doubt but that this is the case. In any event special attention when the weather is bad is the best way to avoid the beginning of disease and disorders.

Cause of Damp Houses

A good many poultry houses are damp and some of them are well constructed, too. They are damp simply because they are not situated in the right place or because some small detail of construction has been overlooked. In such case the trouble can usually be remedied with very little labor and expense. Other houses are nearly hopeless because located in the wrong place or because there is some fault in the masonry in which they were constructed.

Careless Writer!

In a recent examination the correctness of speech attributed to a certain writer was called in question. The writer was asked: "This is farther to the man." One answer was: "This was written by Shakespeare. He often made this kind of mistake."

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 5.—The forward movement in stock prices was broad enough today to include all of the major groups of stocks, the oils, rails, equipments, shipping companies, coppers, motors, steel companies and specialties. Trading was unusually active in the first two hours after which the pace slowed and profit taking was indulged in. With industrial and railroad stocks breaking through into new highs the market had every appearance of resuming the advance which was inaugurated on the day after election.

Prices of many of the most active rails, as well as a number of low priced industries which have been inconspicuous of late, were pushed up to higher levels.

Stocks of the western oil companies made the best showing in that section of the market due to a rise in prices of California crude oil. California Petroleum gained nearly 2 points in an unusually active market and sold up to a new high at 29 1/2; Pan-American B, which is reported to be under accumulation by Standard Oil interests, up 2 points to a new high at 76 1/2. General Petroleum up 2 points.

United States Steel was more active than in the last few sessions and advanced to around 28, the highest for the session. The shipping stocks and the equipment were also impressive in their movements, as on Tuesday and Wednesday, when good gains were scored. Motors and high priced industries retained their gains on a small volume of business.

Irregularity in the grain markets was a handicap to traders who are active in both markets. Wheat declined 5 cents a bushel in Chicago and Winnipeg, due to extensive realizing.

Call money was at 3 per cent.

Many Claim Animals Dream and See Spirits

Most people are satisfied that animals dream, and many believe that they see spirits. Here are some recorded instances, as related by the Montreal Star: A horse was to be put in a stable at a hotel while the owner had his lunch. The horse would not enter the hotel yard, so the owner asked what was the cause. The reply was: "I expect he knows we have a dead man here, taken from the river this morning."

A terrier was seen baying (as he always bays for sugar, then he barked and went upstairs, then bugged again. A person who was a clairvoyant noticed this, and saw he was baying to the spirit of the lady who, when she was on earth, taught him to bay for sugar. A cat was seen running all over a bedroom, got upon the bed, etc. The cat was trying to follow a spirit form that was moving about the bedroom. At a lecture given at the Central Palace a live rat was put in a glass tube, and the tube was sealed up at each end. The room was in darkness and an electric light was put over the tube. When the rat died a form the same shape as a rat came from the tube and went up in the air.

Protect Chicken Flock During Severe Weather

There is always the likelihood of a spell of cold, damp weather and it is just at this time that colds, roup and allied diseases are likely to get started, with the result that we have them to battle with all winter. Get everything in full readiness for inclement weather and whenever a bad day comes the flock should be given ample protection. The houses should be thoroughly cleaned and if repairs are necessary this should be attended to. There should be plenty of clean, dry litter.

Many successful poultrymen follow the practice of supplying a little more feed than usual when the weather is unfavorable and some of them change the ration slightly, supplying a little more of the heat and fat-producing elements. This is done on the theory that the fowls are warmer and more comfortable when so fed and there is no doubt but that this is the case. In any event special attention when the weather is bad is the best way to avoid the beginning of disease and disorders.

Cause of Damp Houses

A good many poultry houses are damp and some of them are well constructed, too. They are damp simply because they are not situated in the right place or because some small detail of construction has been overlooked. In such case the trouble can usually be remedied with very little labor and expense. Other houses are nearly hopeless because located in the wrong place or because there is some fault in the masonry in which they were constructed.

Careless Writer!

In a recent examination the correctness of speech attributed to a certain writer was called in question. The writer was asked: "This is farther to the man." One answer was: "This was written by Shakespeare. He often made this kind of mistake."

Kingston Downed Greenpoint Team

Carl Husta Again Stars, Scoring 19 Points—Game Which Ended 31 to 20 Was in Doubt Until Final Minutes.

Greenpoint displayed a very strong defense in its game Wednesday eve- ning, with the Morgenweckers, but Carl Husta was again too fast for the visitors and the final score end- ed in Kingston's favor 34 to 29. Of the nine field goals caged by the local representatives Carl was responsible for 5 and together with his 9 shots from the complimentary line, made total for the evening 19. The visitors were held to 6 field goals. Sullivan and Anderson did the best shooting, each caging eleven points.

The game was nip and tuck from start to finish, the lead changing hands several times throughout the struggle. At half time the score stood in Kingston's favor 14 to 13. Up until the last two minutes of playing but two points was the mar- ginal lead held by the locals but a pretty field and shot from the correction line brought the tally to 5 points.

Tetterman, who appeared here be- fore with Trenton was in the King- ton line-up last evening and his work was very good. Tetterman is a big boy and seemed to know the game, following up shots, which is one of the big factors of the game. The services of Riconda on the Kingston team is limited. The fast forward will soon leave for baseball, so other new players may be seen shortly in the local line-up.

Of the thirty-four fouls called on Greenpoint by Referee Solodar Kingston made good but 16. Green- point made good 17 out of 28. Time was not taken out for all fouls last evening and the game was faster.
